Millfields Learning at Home and at School

I cannot believe that we are at the end of another week! On Monday, we welcomed back lots of Reception children who were in school for 2 days, and on Wednesday, Y1 children returned to school. They all worked hard and really impressed us with their learning - they needed a bit of reminding about some learning behaviours, but they haven't forgotten everything, and in fact have all really made progress in their learning in lots of areas, especially writing in Year 1!

This is of course, thanks to all of the wonderful parents and extended families who have been and continue are supporting your children so well at home. A huge 'thank you' for working so hard and ensuring that the children are engaging with the work that teachers are sending, and attending the Zoom sessions each week. Please try to make at least one of the meetings as we like to make sure the children are staying in touch with the teacher and their classmates.

It has been so lovely to hear all the parents and children chattering at the gate, albeit in a long socially-distanced line, and it was so good to hear about all the amazing things, as part of home learning, that you have all been doing during lockdown.

It seems very strange that we are thinking about the end of an academic year already, as we have only been in school for just over half of the academic year. I am missing, as I am sure you are, all the summer events and end of term celebrations - let's hope we can get back to some normality next term. In the meantime, teachers have completed the end of term Annual Reports for all children - of course attainment and effort comments will mainly be based on where the children were in March, but they should still give you an idea what your child has done well and what they need to improve on. The reports will be sent out towards the end of this month, and will be sent via email.

Also, this is the time of year that we are finalising and organising transition events and thinking about staff and teachers for the next academic year. Once this is finalised, you will receive notification and there will be a 'Transition Day' set up in the school playground, in groups of no more than 10, for the children to say goodbye to their old teacher and spend some time meeting and getting to know their new teacher. This will be during the week beginning 13th July - more on this in the next few weeks.

Just to reiterate the sentiments in my email to parents and carers earlier this week, we will continue to keep you updated with any developments following government announcements and guidance around schools wider offer. We of course want to see as many children back in school as soon as possible, so hopefully September! Fingers crossed!

It looks like the sunshine is back this weekend and into next week, so enjoy some time outside with your family, and see lots of you again next week.

Take care, keep well and stay safe,
Jane

Home and School Learning!

Hello all,
I hope you're all well.

It's been 5 weeks since our previous email re: #MarvellousMondayMaking in partnership with Hackney Libraries.

Our final video released today is inspired by Shakespeare's 'A Midsummer Night's Dream'.

You can see all 5 videos on our resources page:

<https://www.arthoppers.co.uk/mmm>

We also have an online gallery on the same webpage and would love to share what families make at home.

Photos can be sent to our email:

If you need any further info, we'd be very happy to help.

Please do get in touch with any queries.

MANY THANKS!

Claire.
